The GFCE

Established in 2015, the GFCE is a multi-stakeholder community of more than 120 members and partners consisting of governments, IGOs, companies, academia and project implementers from all regions of the world. Its mission is to strengthen cyber capacity and expertise globally by being a pragmatic, action-orientated and flexible platform for international collaboration. The GFCE delivers its mission through coordination to avoid duplication of efforts and blind spots; knowledge sharing to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of projects; being a Clearing House to connect requests for assistance with offers of support; and identifying and filling knowledge gaps with the development of a global Cyber Capacity Building (CCB) Research Agenda. More information can be found on www.thegfce.org

GFCE Clearing House

The GFCE Clearing House facilitates matchmaking between GFCE Members and Partners: receiving requests for cyber capacity support from GFCE Member nations ('beneficiaries') and matchmaking connections with international 'donors'/implementers' (i.e. other nations, private sector actors, IGOs and charitable foundations) who can offer cyber capacity building resources and expertise.

The GFCE's Clearing House has been operational since September 2018 and is core offering and function of the GFCE, as established in our 2015 mandate. Since 2018, the Clearing House has supported several GFCE member 'beneficiary' nations with clearing house requests. For example, helping Tunisia and Sierra Leone with their National Cyber Security Strategies, Senegal with organizing a national and regional CIIP workshop and The Gambia with cybercrime legislation.

In May 2020, the GFCE Member and Partner community provided feedback on their experience and recommendations for the Clearing House's future. The report of the session is available on the GFCE's Website. The GFCE Secretariat has subsequently refined the Clearing House model, with an aim now to promote the role and offer of the Clearing House, ensuring an effective operating model to meet growing country requests for support.

Role

This new role will lead the development, focus and objectives of the GFCE's Clearing House function. The individual will manage all Clearing House country cases, lead the relationship and interaction between countries and coalitions ("Friends of...") of international cyber capacity building 'donors' and 'implementers'. Be responsible for promoting the success and 'offer' of the GFCE Clearing House internationally, while providing strategic advice to the GFCE Community
